British Renal Society Annual Conference

Tuesday 30th June – Thursday 2nd July 2015

University of Leeds
Leeds, LS2 9JT

Second Announcement & Scientific Programme
Dear Colleagues,

BRS 2015 (Tuesday 30th June – Thursday 2nd July) is fast approaching and will bring together the members of the multidisciplinary team at the University of Leeds. We hope that you and your unit will be supporting the event by attending as a team. The theme for this year is ‘Patient-centred care for young and old’. There are high quality sessions on meeting the challenges of treating an aging population, a central consideration for those involved in kidney care. Two in-depth Workshops will be repeated throughout the conference: “Empathetic Communication for Renal Care” and “Working towards a dementia friendly community: becoming a dementia friend”. At the other end of the age range is the Renal Association sponsored session: Transition from Paediatric to Adult Care.

There is a lot more besides including sessions on AKI, Patient Safety and Quality Improvement. Three CPD sessions are on offer over the course of the conference on topics including:

- Renal rehabilitation
- Challenges of multimorbidity
- Communicating with the young

There are numerous invited lectures as well as 44 oral and 133 poster presentations. Do come and join us for the symposia programme on Tuesday afternoon for some excellent industry sponsored sessions on diabetic kidney disease and ADPKD - two of our most commonly encountered forms of chronic kidney disease.

We will then be joined by Professor Harold Thimbleby for conference opening, who will talk on ‘Designing technology to make healthcare safer’. He gives a highly relevant perspective of how we can improve care delivery. So much of kidney care involves technology that I think this will give a real stimulus to the way that we think about patient safety and quality improvement.

We also thank those industry partners joining us in Leeds. So far we have:

- Stanningley Pharma Ltd - www.stanningleypharma.co.uk
- Syner-Med (Pharmaceutical Products) Ltd - www.syner-med.com

Without their support we would not have a conference.

So remember early registration ends Monday 11th May 2015.

I look forward to seeing you all at BRS 2015.

<td>Renal Patient Education: Does the reality of treatment live up to the education rhetoric?</td>
<td>The proposed study will build on the success of a doctoral research programme, which developed and delivered a self-efficacy theory-based pre-dialysis education intervention for patients. The main aims of the study are: Aim 1: To identify if pre-dialysis education sufficiently prepared individuals for treatment decision-making and if not why not? Aim 2: To identify the impact of treatment on quality of life and importantly how individuals’ levels of self-efficacy impacted on their treatment choice, their capacity to cope and factors influencing self-efficacy behaviours. Findings will inform the evidence base for the tailored delivery of educational components. Multidisciplinary and service user collaboration has been central to the proposed research design and topic development. The group includes: 9 service users, 2 carers, 3 nephrology consultants, health scientist, dietitian, social worker, psychologist, advanced nurse practitioner and patient information librarian. Members represent the local Kidney Patients Association and local Renal Patient Forum groups.</td>

<td>Assessing the acceptability and barriers to implementation among hospital staff of a novel intervention for hospital in-patients at risk of Acute Kidney Injury.</td>
<td>The primary aims of the research are: Aim 1 to assess whether a complex intervention (a ‘care package’ - comprising the APS, an electronic alert to relevant health professionals who have undergone an appropriate educational programme and checklist for patient management) is acceptable by hospital staff and explore the factors that might hinder and/or facilitate its implementation; and Aim 2 to retrospectively test whether introducing this complex intervention can identify patients on admission to hospital who are at risk of developing AKI and reduce AKI associated harm.</td>

<td>A multi-centre study to assess the validity of a novel renal-specific inpatient nutrition screening tool (iNUT)</td>
<td>Chronic kidney disease (CKD) is characterised by a high prevalence of malnutrition which is associated with increased morbidity and mortality. The risk and severity of malnutrition is exacerbated by hospitalisation. A detailed nutritional assessment for all inpatient admissions requires specialist expertise and is time consuming and impractical. Therefore, hospital patients should be routinely screened for risk of malnutrition on admission. However, screening tools designed for the general population such as the Malnutrition Universal Screening Tool (MUST) may lack the sensitivity to identify malnutrition in approximately 50% of renal inpatients affected. An inpatient nutrition screening tool (iNUT) was developed for use on the dedicated renal ward and a pilot study (n=41) showed improved sensitivity in identifying malnutrition and those in need of dietetic intervention compared with MUST. The aim of the present study is to assess the validity and reliability of the iNUT in a multicentre study with a view to further dissemination to renal units nationally. The study will evaluate the potential of iNUT to be used more widely to improve the detection of malnutrition in renal inpatients.</td>

<td>Improving Outcomes in Vascular Access: The IMPROVA study</td>
<td>The IMPROVA Study is designed to identify novel predictors of vascular access success or failure. The aim of the study is to perform enhanced assessments of arterial health preoperatively and correlate these measurements with early AVF outcome. We also aim to assess whether patient reported symptoms of hand function can predict AVF outcome. These non-invasive measurements will provide a more accurate picture of overall vascular health prior to AVF formation with the ultimate intention of informing the clinician as to the likelihood of success or failure.</td>

<td>Development and Validation of a Physical Activity Questionnaire for Subjects with Chronic Kidney Disease (CKD-PAQ)</td>
<td>This study will be undertaken in four phases. We have previously completed a series of studies exploring different aspects of physical activity in chronic kidney disease and dialysis patients. All these studies assessed physical activity using the Recent Physical Activity Questionnaire (RPAQ). In Phase 1, the response profile of previous study participants for each individual item in RPAQ will be examined. The format of the questionnaire items and the breadth of activities covered by the novel questionnaire will be guided by this data. Phase 2 will involve semi-structured interviews with subjects with chronic kidney disease with the aim of refining the questionnaire with regards to the clarity and readability of the individual items to the chronic kidney disease patient. In Phase 3, the novel questionnaire will be validated in a cohort of 120 subjects with chronic kidney disease using measured activity from a wrist-worn accelerometer. Finally, Phase 4 will involve administering the questionnaire to a cohort of 400 participants with chronic kidney disease with the aim of determining the relationship of demographic and clinical factors to the output of the questionnaire and of performing factor analysis to establish its validity and reliability. In Phases 2-4, participant cohorts will include pre-dialysis patients, those on haemodialysis and peritoneal dialysis and transplant patients to ensure the questionnaire will be useful for activity assessment across various groups of subjects with chronic kidney disease.</td>

| Dr Enric Vilar                    | East & North Herts NHS Trust           | Evaluation of patient and staff acceptability of alternate-day haemodialysis            | This proposed study is a preliminary step aimed to provide data that would guide the design of such a study by exploring patient and staff views on alternate day dialysis. The aims are:
  • To provide data on the views of patients regarding alternate day dialysis regimes to guide design of a future large research study
  • To determine the acceptability of alternate day dialysis in a moderate sample size of UK dialysis patients
  • To determine the factors that might determine acceptability of alternate day dialysis to patients on dialysis
  • To determine barriers to alternate day dialysis that would need to be overcome in design of a future trial of thrice weekly versus alternate day dialysis
  • To determine the factors patients consider most important in decision making if they were offered a choice between alternate day and thrice weekly dialysis.                                                                                                           | £14,935.00      |

IMPORTANT FUND-RAISING NEWS!!!!

IF YOU USE eBay - THINK OF THE BRITISH RENAL SOCIETY

There is an option for you to donate a percentage of your final sale price to the British Renal Society.

When you place your item on eBay to be auctioned, just select the British Renal Society from the Charity drop-down menu.

There are currently over 7,000 charities listed on eBay, so search by keyword. Key in British Renal Society into the search by keyword box, hit GO and BRS will then be your choice of Charity to donate to.

First time donors will be asked by eBay to verify the method of payment, which is usually PayPal, and whether or not they intend to tick Gift Aid for that transaction or future ones.

Select the percentage you wish to donate – Please note, the minimum donation is 10% or £1.00

Also please note, if you choose to auction a car, the minimum donation will be 5% of the final sale price.

When the item is sold, eBay will send your donation directly to the British Renal Society.

If you tick the Gift Aid box, your donation will have an additional 25% added.

BRS will become your chosen Charity to donate to, in future eBay sales, if you wish.

PLEASE THINK OF THE BRITISH RENAL SOCIETY WHEN YOU USE eBay

All funds raised will go to the BRS Research for Renal Fund, promoting patient-centred clinical research to improve the lives of people with kidney disease, their families and carers
Public transport to the University of Leeds

BY TRAIN:
Leeds Train Station links regularly to all major UK cities. You can get from the station to the campus on foot, by taxi or by bus. A taxi ride will take about 10 minutes and it will cost approximately £5.

FROM TRAIN STATION BY BUS:
We advise you to take bus number 95 which departs from directly outside the train station. The bus runs approximately every 10 minutes and the journey takes 10 minutes. You should get off the bus just outside the Parkinson Building. (There is also a free city bus which takes you from the train station to the lower end of campus but the journey time is much longer)

FROM TRAIN STATION ON FOOT:
The University campus is a 20 minute walk from the train station. The map below will help you find your way. Leave the station through the exit facing the main concourse. Turn left past the bus stops and walk down towards City Square. Keeping City Square on your left, walk straight up Park Row. At the top of the road turn right onto The Headrow, passing The Light shopping centre on your left. After The Light turn left onto Woodhouse Lane to continue uphill. Keep going, passing Morrisons, Leeds Metropolitan and the Dry Dock boat pub heading for the large white clock tower. This is the Parkinson building.

BY COACH:
If you arrive by coach you can catch bus numbers 6, 28 or 97 to the University (Parkinson Building). There is also a taxi rank; a taxi will take about 10 minutes and cost approximately £5.
